LOCATION: rather close to Richmond, actually...

We're all fine here.

Although my coffee cup died nobly.

Yum.

Apples, maple syrup, and cheddar and goat

Behold the power of NOM.

I love the fact that the stand mixer makes deciding to throw together cinnamon rolls to rise

In case of emergency break eggs

Biscuits are best eaten fresh. And by "fresh," I mean, grabbed off the baking sheet when the oven

Glad you're all OK! (Isn't that the wrong coast for earthquakes?) (Yeah, I know, I know, looking at maps of fault lines...)

Wonder Woman grabbed her pen before it rolled away and went back to what she was doing...then looked up and said, "Waitaminute!"

Perfect double-take.

I'm reminded of one of the offshoots of Murphy's Law - "Everything east of the San Andreas Fault will eventually fall into the Atlantic Ocean."

I've a friend felt it all the way up in Toronto. That was some twitchy earth!

The crack-of-doom in the office, caused by our downstairs neighbors removing structural walls ahem, may have gotten wider, but so far has resisted sliding off onto 7th Street.

Thanks for checking in. I didn't feel anything, but folks in the area who work on higher floors say they did.

I'm glad y'all are ok! My son (13) rode it out alone in Baltimore & couldn't get through the jammed phone lines. Bless the internet & twitter for check-ins.

Michigan felt it! I didn't, but some folks I know in the general Detroit area felt it.

A friend of mine who is currently in the DC area posted a pic of the devastation of the great VA earthquake. The picture is a patio set and one of the chairs has fallen over.

Still a 5.9 is pretty big for the East Coast! So sad for the demise of your coffee cup.

Hey, nice icon!

Glad to hear that everyone is fine, as well.

Glad you are ok -- I am apparently the only person on the eastern seaboard not to have noticed it.
